the motion, and all three commissioners voted to accept the bid.

“They need to move pretty fast on it. Isn’t that right?” Turner asked.

“Yes,” Russo said.

“I’ll just need the info on it,” Gant told Russo, explaining he’d need an invoice and VIN number for the truck.

“I’ll be able to get that for you today,” Russo said.

Financing bids for road grader

The commissioners then opened the bids for financing a John Deere 770GP motor grader for $159,495 (after trade-in of the county Road & Bridge Department’s old grader).

The bids were:

Southern Bank at 2.625 percent in a five-year fixed-rate loan or 2.8 percent in a seven-year fixed rate loan; Murphy’s at 2.8 percent in either a five-year fixed rate or eight-year fixed rate; Stockmens Bank at 2.875 percent in a five-year fixed rate or 3 percent in five-year fixed rate with no fees (see previous fees explanation); and Century Bank at 3.15 percent in a five-year other person was a female who told Lane that she and Gray “were waiting for the battery to charge in the vehicle so it could be started and would be able to leave for the night.”

Deputy Seth Miller, who was also on scene, asked the female to sit in his patrol vehicle with him while he continued working with a dispatcher to run her information through the law enforcement software program. The female reportedly told the officer that she was on probation.

“At that time, I spoke with Mr. Gray, who was in the passenger’s seat. I asked if he had anything in the vehicle that I needed to be aware of for my safety, to which he stated no,” Lane wrote. “After Mr. Gray stated he was unaware of anything being in the vehicle I asked if he had anything on his person I fixed rate loan.

“I’ll make a motion to go with Southern,” Eastern District Commissioner Gary Collins said. Western District Commissioner Layne Nance seconded the motion, and all three commissioners voted to accept the financing bid from Southern Bank.

“Gary, you just send me an invoice when you get it,” Gant said.

“I’ll bring it tomorrow,” Collins said.

Propane bids

The third bid opening was for bids for the county’s propane needs for the next year, which included a pressure test on the courthouse’s underground 1,000-gallon tank.

Anderson Propane submitted a bid for $1.47 per gallon locked rate, and MFA oil submitted a bid for $1.559 per gallon locked rate.

“I’ll make a motion that we go ahead and take Anderson’s bid for $1.47,” Turner said. Collins seconded it, and all three commissioners voted to accept Anderson’s Propane bid.
